Toeniskoetter Construction Continues to Announce New Projects Despite the Down Economy

Three New Projects Announced in the South Bay

SAN JOSE, California (November 18, 2009) – Toeniskoetter Construction, Inc., San Jose’s oldest new construction company, announced today that despite the down economy they are continuing to secure new business.

“We’re happy to continually win new business especially in this economy,” said Dan Amend, President of Toeniskoetter Construction. “We attribute this to long-term relationships with business and property owners in the South Bay, as well as our reputation for quality work and excellent customer service. We can help property owners upgrade their properties and stay within their budgets to stay competitive.”

Amend announced the following market ready construction projects:

2150 N. 1st Street, San Jose - Mid-Rise Office Building

Toeniskoetter crews will be modernizing the landscape and hardscape of the exterior of this granite-clad six-story Class A office building. Enhancements will include a significant redesign of the driveway approach, pedestrian walkways and redefining the entry to the building. The market ready improvements also include an upgraded granite-clad monument sign to more prominently display the tenants of the building. Current tenants include Bank of America, Fuji Film Medical Systems, Adara Networks and Eclipsys Corporation.

333 W. Santa Clara Street, San Jose - Mid-Rise Office Building

Toeniskoetter Construction completed tenant improvements on this landmark building in downtown San Jose earlier this year. The property owners were so pleased with the project they decided to continue the renovations throughout the balance of the building. The renovations include updating additional elevator lobbies and renovating the restrooms.

Toeniskoetter Construction, Inc. handles tenant improvements in a broad array of industries including professional services, financial services, medical, selective R&D, mid-rise office buildings and complex projects.

945 Ames Street, Milpitas - Warehouse Building

This long established warehouse and yard facility is in need of market ready upgrades.

Toeniskoetter will upgrade the offices in the warehouse and provide major enhancements to the yard. The exterior improvements include: cleaning up the parking lot, reworking storm drain catch basins, rust restoration and paint, and restoring the existing loading dock and canopy system. They will also be sprucing up the existing landscaping to bring the entire facility up to market standards.
